Talmadge Stakes Political Career Against New Deal

Public Life Suicide Faces Georgia's Governor If He Is Wrong on How Washington Administration Policies Work Out.

EXECUTIVE FACTOR IN NATION IF RIGHT

Playing Against Roosevelt, Best Hand in Great Gamble Depends on Outcome of the New Deal.

By L. A. FARRELL.

Governor Talmadge came home yesterday from Washington's teeming cauldron, a national figure staking his political all in a game that looks like a battle of poker giants, a game in which the two players, Roosevelt and Talmadge, will stand pat until the showdown in the fall of 1936.

In the governor's wake and awaiting his arrival here were hundreds of telegrams congratulating him for his assault upon the New Deal Tuesday night, and a scattered few scorning him anew for his determination to rid the nation of what he thinks is a program heading to ruin.

As the governor settled down to his desk to attend the routine affairs of state and prepare for his next foray into the north which will take him to speaking engagements to New York, New London, Conn., Providence, R. I., and Chicago, the speculation as to his future and to his plans for the future was the topic for discussion all over Georgia.

Regardless of the sentiment, pro or con, the Talmadge speech of Tuesday night was under discussion everywhere yesterday. In barber shops, in hotels, in clubs, in homes and on every street corner the argument was all Roosevelt and Talmadge.

Will the governor run for the senate? That was one question.

Will he again offer for governor? That was another.

Will he carry out his determination to defeat Roosevelt by running on a national third party ticket, or will he offer for the democratic nomination? That was still another.

Whatever the answer, it was certain that Talmadge has laid his destiny on the table and taken the greatest political gamble ever taken by a Georgian.

Platform Is Determined.

Should the governor wind up by attempting to unseat Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., as was expected by practically all Georgia less than a few weeks ago he cannot but run on an anti-Roosevelt platform, a platform carrying with it, as he says, are the straight Jeffersonian principles.

Senator Russell, while he has not followed the administration at every turn, is looked upon in Washington and in a Roosevelt man.

But at that Russell is not so tied to the administration that he can't get away if he desires. But he's tied close enough so that if he desires, he can do down the line as a Roosevelt candidate. Russell voted against the World Court and for the bones, against the administration in both instances. He has stayed with the administration.

WASHINGTON—Threat of Roosevelt veto of $2,000,000,000 Patman

VET COMPROMISE SOUGHT IN SENATE; MEASURE DELAYED

Move Appears To Leave Method of Providing Cash to F. D. R.; Steam-Roller Vote Organizing.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP)—New talk of compromising the cash bonus issue sprang today from fears of some Senate advocates that the Patman $2,000,000,000 new money plan could not be passed over a threatened presidential veto.

Supporters of the inflationary bill contended that with a few days' delay they could muster the votes needed to override Mr. Roosevelt's veto. They listened, nevertheless, to proposals advanced by Senators Clark, democrat, Missouri, and Gore, democrat, Oklahoma, to give the president the choice between payment in new currency, payment by orthodox borrowing, or from the $4,880,000,000 work-relief fund.

To get this compromise to the president, the Senate would have to reconsider the 55 to 33 vote by which it passed the airtman bill yesterday. A motion for reconsideration was on file from Senator Thomas, democrat, Oklahoma, for purposes of delaying transmission of the bill to the White House until the maximum new-money strength could be mustered.

Administration leaders maintained confidently they could sustain a veto of the Patman bill and discounted possibilities of a compromise. But others said a final decision might await developments in the vigorous drive for the handful more votes needed to make the measure law without Mr. Roosevelt's signature.

Coughlin Aid Sleuth.

Leaders of veterans' organizations were reported planning to carry the veto fight directly to the White House, unless the effort would help pass the Patman bill, Father Charles E. Coughlin. He said in his speech that "President Roosevelt is too clever a politician to veto the bill" and added that such a step "would be political suicide."

Friendly of the bill, passed by the Senate, 55 to 33, yesterday, were hopeful the Detroit priest would help rally the few more votes needed for a veto-overriding majority—two-thirds of all votes cast.

Senator Thomas, democrat, Oklahoma, author of the Patman bill in the Senate, and equally to hold up the bill temporarily when Mr. Roosevelt indicated to his press conference a veto message would speed the measure back to Capitol Hill without even the 10-day delay allowed by the constitution.

Veteran senators contended vote favoring the bill usually would suffice instead of picking up after a veto.

They said past experience showed there was little chance of passing a bill over a veto if it did not get the support of two-thirds of the senators.

"Not Enough Votes."

Speaker of the House said that the 90 votes again the Patman bill in the house "should be increased by a veto, but probably not enough to stop the bill."

Thomas would not disclose how long he planned to hold up the bill. "We are going to keep it tied up until we are ready for the next step," he said.

Asked if he had enough votes to pass the bill over a veto, the Oklahoman replied:

"There will be a determined effort to pass the bill over a veto, if one is forthcoming. Whether it can be done depends on whether the bill is popular."

Meanwhile, representatives of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the two big veterans organizations, swarmed through the Senate corridors on the lookout for possibilities of gaining a vote or two.

48 NAVAL PLANES TO HOP TO MIDWAY

Mass Flight Announced in Connection With Pacific Maneuvers.

HONOLULU, May 8.—(AP)—Preparations for an unprecedented mass flight of 48 naval planes from here to Midway Island starting at dawn tomorrow were begun suddenly today at the Pearl Harbor naval base, signifying the first step of American fighting forces toward linking the United States' far-flung Pacific territories.

Although naval authorities would not talk about the undertaking, it was learned unofficially that the massive planes, greatest over-water air armada ever assembled, would take off early in the morning for the 1,323-mile flight, barring unfavorable weather.

The theme of the pageant will be "School Life of Today." Taking part in the exercises will be the glee clubs of the two Decatur high schools and the Boys' High school band and orchestra.

DECATUR TO OFFER PAGEANT TO HONOR U. S. HIGH SCHOOLS

Honoring the 300th anniversary of the American high school, a pageant participated in by 540 students will be staged at 8:15 o'clock tonight by pupils of Decatur schools on the Boys' High school field, according to Lamar Ferguson, superintendent of Decatur schools.

The theme of the pageant will be "School Life of Today." Taking part in the exercises will be the glee clubs of the two Decatur high schools and the Boys' High school band and orchestra.

between the mainland, Hawaii and Alaska, was playing an undisclosed part in the ambitious plans.

Secretary of War, serving the preparations said the planes would carry enough gasoline to fly to Midway and half way back here.

About 200 officers and men were said to make up the expedition.

It was expected the flight would require about 12 hours, although there were indications the aircraft squadrons might spend a short time in technical maneuvers along the way.

WASHINGTON SAYS PLANES NOT TO GO FURTHER WEST

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP)—Confirming plans for a 1,300-mile mass flight by 48 naval patrol planes across the Pacific from Honolulu to Midway Islands, the navy's high command insisted here tonight that the flight would not extend further to the Aleutian Island, some 1,700 miles away.

who may wish to buy them early in the 1935-36 ginning season.

It is optional with the producers, the AAA said, whether they share the pooled certificates placed in the special pool. Producers who did not participate in the 1934-35 pool but are holding tax-exemption certificates issued for last year may place these certificates in the special pool.

The special pool will operate "for a limited time" and will have tax-exemption certificates available for sale as soon as ginning begins in the more advanced cotton areas.

The AAA said surplus certificates will be sold by the pool at a lower price than the ginning tax fixed by the Bankhead act. This plan, it was said, will enable officials to meet the demand for certificates without waiting several weeks while surpluses are developed in other areas to be pooled and distributed.

The first certificate pool was organized to facilitate transfer of the certificates under the Bankhead law. The AAA said producers pooled certificates for a total of 1,200,000 bales. Certificates representing 400,000,000 pounds were sold by the pool, and the AAA said $11,338,000 or approximately 80 per cent of the total amount due the producers has been paid.

Certificates for 180,000,000 pounds or 16,000 bales remain in the pool to be pro-rated to producers who surrendered certificates for sale through the pool.

When not turned into special pool, the AAA said, these surplus certificates will be issued to producers as 1935-36 tax-exemption certificates and in addition to the regular allotment of certificates under the 1935 program.

At expiration of the special pool, proceeds, less operating expenses, will be pro-rated among the participants, and any remaining certificates will be sold and the money pro-rated.

The final payment to producers who surrendered certificates to the pool last year will be made "within the next few weeks" and when the checks are distributed, the producers will be given an opportunity to protest.

Operation of the pool is being limited, it was said, so that sale of certificates from the special pool will not interfere with sale of 1935-36 certificates by producers who may have made headway against President Roosevelt.

Coming from the president's second "home state," the governor has apparently been taken over by the idea that to win Georgia away from Mr. Roosevelt in the preferential campaign would increase his political prestige to a degree necessary to command attention in national republican quarters. He left no doubt in Georgia circles of the capital that he has been bitten hard by the thought.

Some of his friends in Washington sought to dissuade him from what they considered an utterly futile and politically suicidal program, but overtures to this end apparently failed to impress him. He gave evidence of a strong determination to go through with it all.

Still another conclusion reached by Georgia in the capital and presented to the editor of The Constitution is that Governor Talmadge, for the moment at least, has abandoned any idea he may have had of opposing Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., when the latter's term expires next year, but instead will seek re-election to his present post. The latter, of course, contingent on his presidential plans going awry.

Russell, Cox Leaders.

Nevertheless, it will fall the lot of Senator Russell to organize forces to block the efforts of the governor to capture the state's convention delegation from President Roosevelt. Informal conferences in this direction have already taken place and things are shaping up even this far in a race in such a way as to give prestige for a political battle royal between the two, even though the latter senatorial campaign is avoided.

The forthcoming clash of Congressmen Cox may well precipitate him in the battle also, thrusting him forward on a basis of equal leadership with the junior senator in the presidential preferential primary.

One of the most outspoken members of the Georgia house group, Judge Cox is expected to be unsparring in his criticism of the governor and will adopt a thesis of declaring to the country that the Talmadge attacks on the Roosevelt administration do not reflect true sentiment in Georgia.

"Bank clearings in Atlanta," the secretary declared, "increased 17 per cent over the last week in April and 20 per cent over the corresponding week of last year. Employment conditions gradually improve, with 500 persons placed in private work. Building activity also increased encouragingly."

PRESIDENT CRITICS ROUSE KEY WRATH

Mayor Signs Council Resolution Indorsing Roosevelt, Voicing Full Approval.

President Roosevelt will get a strong council resolution indorsing him and his administration and condemning his critics as a result of approval yesterday by Mayor Key of the council measure.

In approving the measure Key assured: "This is fine, only it does not go far enough. It is not nearly as strong as I would have made it. I know Mr. Roosevelt, and I know the caliber of men who are most active in criticizing him. Mr. Roosevelt has done much for recovery and we believe of value. We critics, I always have supported him and will continue to do so."

"Now is no time for bickering. We should support a deal which is working wonders for our people. I have already said all there is in this resolution and more, and cannot understand why there would be any question as to whether or not it should pass."

The portion of the resolution condemning Roosevelt's critics follows:

"That we condemn with all the indignation of which mortals are capable any and all attacks on President Roosevelt and the national administration. Such attacks do not represent the sentiment of the people of this section of our country and do our people a gross injustice and we repudiate such attacks with all resentment at our command."

Small quantities of grain and hay should be fed calves at the age of two weeks in order to give them a good start in life, livestock experts have found.

"SHOCKING!" Says THE EDITOR OF VOGUE

"SPLendid!" Says YOUR OWN DENTIST

You can still be civilized and avoid "PINK TOOTH BRUSH"

"PINK TOOTH BRUSH"

THE most shocking picture I ever saw," says Edna Woolman Chase, Editor of Vogue. "Any woman who behaved that badly would never receive another dinner invitation."

But there's nothing shocking about it to modern dentists.

"Splendid," would be your own dentist's verdict. "This is a true educational picture, a graphic lesson in the proper use of the teeth. If we moderns ate as vigorously, if all of us ate more rough, coarse food, dentists would hear a lot less about tender, sensitive, ailing gums."

Dental science explains that since soft, creamy foods have displaced coarse, raw foods, the gums suffer. They get sluggish and often so tender that "pink tooth brush" has become a very common warning signal.

DON'T NEGLECT "PINK TOOTH BRUSH"

"Pink tooth brush" is well known to your dentist.

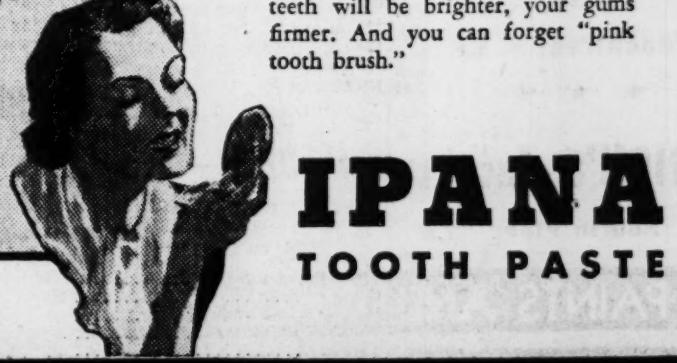

He knows that serious troubles, such as gingivitis, pyorrhea and Vincent's disease may follow.

And he knows that massage is needed to stimulate and firm your gums.

If you are wise, you will begin at once to massage your gums every time you brush your teeth. Each time, rub a little extra Ipana on the gums. For Ipana with massage helps restore gums to healthy firmness.

Start cleaning your teeth and massaging your gums with Ipana — today. Your teeth will be brighter, your gums firmer. And you can forget "pink tooth brush."

PAINTS AND WALLPAPER10 Cents Per Gallon Auto Fuel
Is Seen From Farm Products

DEARBORN, Mich., May 8.—(P) Proposals to manufacture power alcohol from farm products precipitated the decision today before the conference of science, industry and agriculture as experts disagreed sharply over its value as a motor fuel.

The Dearborn conference also took definite steps to make American agriculture a partner in modern industrial production.

Representatives of agriculture, industry and science approved unanimously a resolution introduced by Harper Sibley, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, calling for the creation of a council which would become the co-ordinating agency in "developing new industrial markets for farm products."

The resolution was for appointment of a committee of 15 to form a national organization to supervise the practical application in industry of numerous agricultural products which have been utilized experimentally in manufacturing processes.

The resolution was in line with a message to the conference from Henry Ford, who declared he was convinced that farm production of industrial supplies was both inevitable and essential.

"I believe we are on the track of a new partnership between farm and factory," Ford said. "The result will be that agriculture will have control of economy because a balance will have been reached."

CUBA NIPS REVOLT, SHOOTS GUITERAS

Former Secretary of Interior Was Fleeing Isle With Falla Ransom.

HAVANA, May 8.—(P)—Government soldiers, an unpunishable source said, smashed a miniature revolt today by killing Antonio Guiteras, American-born radical leader, who was backed against the army by a small detachment of the navy.

Soldiers' bullets struck down the young former secretary of the interior, war and navy after a grim battle at the mouth of Matanzas harbor, 65 miles east of Havana.

Four soldiers were slain, it was learned, and a large amount of the kidnap ransom bills in the recent $300,000 kidnaping of Eutimio Falla Ruiz were found near the body of Guiteras. The government has charged the former secretary with the kidnaping.

Guiteras, it was known, had long controlled a large part of the navy, which he once directed, and persuaded naval men at Matanzas to aid him in escaping to the United States.

Army intelligence officers learned of the conspiracy and set a trap this morning. A boat was seen moving into the bay to aid Guiteras to flee the island when the fighting started between rebellious sailors and loyal soldiers.

Reports in other quarters said remnants of the sailors took the boat and escaped and that others were hiding in the hills but this was not immediately confirmed.

Half American.

Guiteras, 28-year-old half American—he was born in Philadelphia of an American mother, the former Marie Therese Hirsch, who died in 1926, some 20 followers, two of them women, at the cost of four soldiers' lives.

Rifles, pistols, and machine guns roared during the three-hour battle, the two women fighting side by side with the other Guiteristas. Army leaders said one of the women fired the shots which killed Corporal Manuel Diaz, the commanding precent of the army headquarters in Matanzas. It was difficult to learn the exact number of persons wounded, but they were believed to number at least 10, including two fishermen who came in the line of fire. About 15 Guiteristas were arrested after the soldiers took the fortress.

Two of those taken into custody, army officials said, were Feliciano Aldecoa, former chief of public works in Matanzas, and Captain Antonio Santan, the Cuban navy.

Enemy of Batista.

Guiteras, an enemy of long standing of Colonel Fulencio Batista, commander of the Cuban army, met his Waterloo after the army's intelligence corps learned that he with his followers planned to enter the neighborhood of "El Morello" on the Canimar river early today in an effort to get away to the United States by boat. As soon as the rebels entered, however, the soldiers surrounded it. Advancing, they were met by fire from inside and the battle was on. Residents of the town of Matanzas not far from the scene, who did not know of the nature of the battle, were highly excited.

A council of war will be called immediately to try those captured, it was predicted.

Guiteras, long regarded as one of Cuba's most dangerous revolutionaries and said to be the only radical Batista respected, was the leader of the "Joven Cuba" (young Cuba) radical organization and powerful in the ranks of former President Ramon Grau San Martin's "authentic" party.

The resolution embracing the decision to retain the code stated that unless the specified conditions are met "the non-metropolitan publishing and printing establishments be eliminated from provisions of any code."

The code issue first flared before the convention yesterday when Robert H. Pritchard, Weston, W. Va., who was elected president of the association, today delivered a fiery attack on National Recovery Administration, charging the NRA "brain trusters" had "betrayed" President Roosevelt.

Pritchard, formerly vice-president succeeded Kenneth F. Baldridge, of Bloomfield, Iowa, in the presidency. Clayton T. Rand, Gulfport, Miss., publisher, was named vice-president, and W. W. Loomis, of LaGrange, Ill., was elected treasurer succeeding W. W. Aikens, of Franklin, Ind.

In the feature address of the day the delegates heard Tom Wallace, editor of the Louisville Times, urge the rural press to retain its "rugged individuality" and to build circulation through the editorial department and not through the business office.

CCC IN GEORGIA WILL BE DOUBLED

Number of Enrolled Men Will Be Hiked From 6,600 to 13,400.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP)—Civilian conservation activities in Georgia will be doubled under the expansion program approved by President Roosevelt.

Robert Fetherer, director of emergency conservation, announced today the number of men to be selected from the Cracker state will be increased from 6,600 to approximately 13,400, and the camps boosted from 34 to 53, not including new soil erosion units.

Work in Georgia mills will include fire protection and improvement, soil erosion prevention and development of state parks and national monuments.

A unique feature of the Georgia CCC program was a plan to plant special grasses on an experimental basis in the pine forests in the southern part of the state, to supplant

Sunday Baseball, Movies Barred in Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N. C., May 8.—(P)—Greensboro voters don't want Sunday baseball or Sunday movies. In a referendum yesterday, 1,271 votes were cast for Sunday baseball, and 2,713 against.

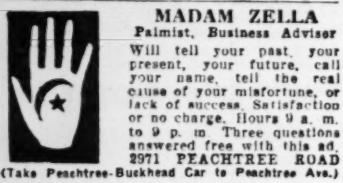

For Sunday movies, 146 voters favored them and 2,776 disapproved.

The wire grass, protect the trees against fire and provide fine grazing. Fetherer said that the emergency conservation he hoped private forestry managers of the region will adopt the work generally. Of the total number of camps to be operated in Georgia, 19 will be in national forests, 10 in private forests, one on a soil erosion project, four in national parks, 10 in state parks and seven on military reservations.

Locations of the new camps, except those for erosion work to be announced later, follow:

National Forests—Camp—Clayton in Rabun county (2); Blue Ridge, Fannin county; Cleveland, Lumpkin; Private Forests—Nashville in Berrien; LaFayette in Walker; Armuchee in Floyd; Swainsboro in Emanuel, and at Lakeland in Lanier. State Parks—In Jackson in Butts county; Crawfordville in Talbot; Rutledge in Marion and Middle in Oglethorpe. National Monument—Cheaha Hill in Cobb county. Military Reservations—Three at Fort Benning and one at Fort McPherson.

BRUNO DENIES DEBT TO JAMES M. FAWCETT

TRENTON, N. J., May 8.—(UPI)—Bruno, Richard Hauptmann today through his attorney, C. Lloyd Fisher, denied that he owes $4,200 in legal fees to James M. Fawcett, his first counsel.

Hauptmann set up the claim that he was not at any time "within the jurisdiction of the Kings county supreme court" during the proceedings which led to Fawcett's obtaining a $4,200 judgment against him.

BREWERS' ASSOCIATION CONDEMNED BY BISHOP

Ainsworth Cites Findings of Senate Committee in 1918.

Milton L. Fleetwood, state director of the Georgia Temperance League, yesterday released a statement from Bishop William N. Ainsworth, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, written from Macon to the editor of The Constitution.

Bishop Ainsworth in his statement replies to an editorial in The Constitution of last Sunday.

His statement follows in full:

"Editor Constitution: As a citizen of Georgia, I ask the courtesy of enough space in The Constitution to express my complete and unqualified disagreement with an editorial entitled "Beer's Aid to Recovery," which appeared in Sunday's Constitution. This was written in the pictorial section of the paper by the page advertisement of beer in the interest of "real temperance." Jacob Ruppert, president of the United States Brewers' Association, is credited with furnishing the alleged facts and is doubtless one of the "friends of real temperance" in Georgia now."

Involvement in 1918.

"It is a sufficient answer to this editorial and advertisement for the public to be reminded that the activities of this same United States Brewers' Association was investigated by a committee of the United States senate in 1918 and its findings in summary have been spread in the following language on the government's record:

"With regard to the conduct and activities of the brewing and liquor interests, the committee is of the opinion that the record clearly establishes the following facts:

(a) That they have furnished large sums of money for the purpose of secretly controlling newspapers and periodicals.

(b) That they have undertaken to, and have frequently succeeded in controlling primaries, elections and political organizations.

(c) That they have contributed enormous sums of money to political campaigns in violation of the federal statutes and of several of the states.

Exact Pledges.

(d) That they have exacted pledges from candidates for public office prior to the election.

(e) That for the purpose of influencing public opinion they have attempted and partly succeeded in subsidizing the public press.

(f) That to suppress and coerce persons hostile to them and to compel support for them they have resorted to an extensive system of espionage, blackmail, bribery and manufacturing and mercantile concerns.

(g) That they have created their own political organizations in many states and have sought to influence the passage of laws carrying into effect their own policies and have financed the same with large contributions and assessments.

(h) That in their view of using it for their own political purposes they contributed large sums of money to the German-American Alliance, made of members of which were disloyal and un-American.

Organized Clubs.

(i) That they organized clubs, leagues and corporations of various kinds for the purpose of secretly carrying on their political activities without having their interests known to the public.

(j) That they improperly treated the funds expended for political purposes as a personal expense and have failed to return the same for taxation under the revenue laws of the United States.

(k) That they undertook through a carefully concealed plan of advertising and subsidization to control and dominate the foreign-language press of the United States.

(l) That they subsidized authors of recognized standing in literary circles to write articles of their selection for many standard periodicals.

(m) That for many years a working agreement existed between the brewing and distilling interests of the country by terms of which the brewing interests controlled one-third and the distilling interests one-third of the political expenditures made by the joint interests.

"If any intelligent person can read this statement and consider the fact that Germany or the entire country would be benefited, with no bad effects," by the legalization of the activities of this association of criminal, un-American brewers in our midst, then he is a voracious believer.

Specious Argument.

"The advocates of repeal have evidently lost hope for the legalization of hard liquor and are striving hard to induce Congress to weaken laws in the interest of youth, temperance, and school books. Never was more specious argument put before an intelligent people. Bismarck, the greatest of German chancellors, says 'the prevalent argument is specious.'

Atlanta HOMES EQUIPPED WITH

Dr. Caldwell Holliday,

Valley Road.

MONCRIEF Air CONDITIONING

This beautiful Valley Road home of Dr. Caldwell Holliday was designed by Frazier & Bodin, Architects, and is one of the hundreds of Atlanta Homes that are enjoying the cleanliness and comfort of Moncrief Air-Conditioning. This installation uses coal for fuel with automatic stoker.

Moncrief Air-Conditioning System keeps this charming home comfortable winter and summer. The air is properly moistened, cleaned and filtered of dust, dirt and bacteria. Rugs, draperies and furnishings are free from the usual dust accumulation and cleaning and redecorating costs are materially reduced. Moncrief Air-Conditioning System protects the health of the family by catching and destroying bacteria in the air filters.

Investigate this modern system today—it can be economically installed in either a new home or one already built, and can use coal, oil or gas for fuel.

Moncrief also installs furnaces, water-heating, rock wool, attic insulation, ventilating, and humidification systems and refrigeration for home cooling.

Legion charges were dealt with in detail and claims of red alliances were denied.

Claude Nelson, executive secretary, has consistently opposed both communism and fascism, because of their violent methods and their denial of democracy, the report states. "Mr. Nelson is an active, earnest Christian, a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and a Sunday school teacher," the report said.

A reply to the Legion charge that the National Religion and Labor Federation is "sacerdotal, revolutionary and atheistic" is made in which it is said the foundation was established by six well-known religious leaders with a Methodist bishop as its vice president, and such well-known leaders as Dr. S. Parkes Cadman and Stephen S. Wise as members of the national committee.

The Legion charged that the Friends Service Committee is a communistic organization and are termed as absurd on their face. The committee was created in 1917 as an official agency of the Quaker denomination, the memorandum states.

Dr. Herbert A. Miller, charged in the Legion statement with having been dismissed from Atlanta by a leader for "un-American activities," has nothing to do with the coming meeting, the memorandum declared. Likewise, Harry D. Gideone said in the report to have no connection with the southern institute. Other claims made in the Legion charges met with similar refutation.

A letter sent by Kenneth R. Muller, commanding officer of the No. 1 of the American Legion to W. R. B. Elzner, an official of the institute, set forth that Legionnaires had checked all charges made in the original Legion letter.

Please be assured that no sinister influence has imposed on the men who broke the Hindenburg line—or could that be the letter stated? "Be certain you are not being duped. Check every statement which we made in the letter to '60 southern citizens' and those connected with the institution whose records we did not have mentioned."

"Our object is to save the people of Georgia from a sinister 'crack' which these fellows who are coming here have been working all over the country. Then, we make a deep and abiding interest in and love for our churches. We want to do our very best to disassociate them with these people."

FLOWER EXHIBIT TO BE HELD TODAY

With Mary Kay taking part in the opening ceremonies will be Mrs. T. Hubbard McHatton, president of the Garden Clubs of Georgia; Mrs. James Floyd, chairman of the flower show, and Mrs. Robert L. Cooney, honorary president of the club.

The flower show is rapidly gaining recognition as the most important horticultural event in the southeast and leaders hope to have it rival the New York Flower Show.

Garden Club Sponsor. Mrs. Albert Thornton, president of the Peachtree Garden Club, sponsors of the event, in collaboration with the other Atlanta clubs, will be present as will the following garden club presidents: Mrs. J. C. Harris Jr., Mrs. Donald Hastings, Mrs. Bolling Hall Sasse, Mrs. M. D. Norton, Mrs. Blewett Lee, Mrs. George Pratt, Mrs. Green Warren, Mrs. Gilbert Beers, Mrs. Phillips Graves and others.

The show has been divided into seven sections, each section having a number of subdivisions and classes. In each section and class will be represented the garden and flower-growing ability of both professionals and amateurs.

A pre-opening glimpse of the show at 71 Peachtree reveals a flower kingdom portraying every variety of garden flower from the stately peony to the colorful arrangements of gorgeous specimens from show goers by their show exquisite beauty.

In addition to a number of new floral creations and novel features to be seen at the show the restaurant committee, under Mrs. Henry Newman, chairman, has constructed a sidewalk cafe that will attract considerable attention. The decorations for the cafe have been ably executed by Harvey Smith, residential designer of this city.

Prizes for the show will be awarded by Davison-Dixon Company, Rich's, Inc., J. P. Allen Company, Leon Frohsin Shoppe, George Muse Clothing Company, J. Regenstein Company, J. W. High Company, Weinbergers, W. D. Green Decoating Company, Porter & Porter, Susan Spillman, Robin Lee, Mrs. George Pratt, Mrs. Letton's, Mesdames S. M. Innan, Thomas Hinman, Cam Dorsey, Hugh Spalding, R. L. Cooney, John Reid, William Hill.

McGEHEE HONORED AT BANQUET GIVEN BY FHA OFFICIALS

Honoring Charles C. McGehee, prominent Atlanta, recently appointed deputy assistant regional director of the Federal Housing Administration, and Mrs. McGehee, a banquet was given by state offices of the FHA at the Winecoff hotel last night.

Alton Cogell, chief mortgage examiner of the state FHA, presided as toastmaster while speakers were Judge Waldo DeLoach, state director of the organization; Erle Cocke, manager of the Atlanta agency of the RFC; just appointed state director of the National Emergency Council; William A. Simon, associate state director of the FHA; E. M. Leath, state office manager, and Lawrence Camp, United States district attorney.

Approximately 50 guests were present at the banquet, including the entire personnel of the state and regional offices of the Federal Housing Administration.

Mrs. McGehee, member of a prominent Atlanta family, was formerly in the Washington offices of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, returning to Atlanta to accept his present post.

STUDENTS AWARDED LEGION ESSAY MEDALS

Norman Hannah, student at Commercial High school, yesterday was awarded the American Legion essay medal for his essay on "Good Citizenship" at a program held at the high school. Addresses on citizenship were delivered by J. E. Thrift and Walter LeCraw, of the Americanism committee of Atlanta Post No. 1 of the Legion.

Ned Cartledge, of Boys' High school, was presented with the Legion medal for his essay on "Electrification," morning and also was awarded the grand prize of $20 for the best essay submitted by any high school student in Atlanta. Presentation was made by Marvin G. Russell, American Legion committee chairman.

For every 20 miles "on the road"—you do 80 MILES "around town"

IT'S ON THE LONG TRIPS—the steady driving—that most of us keep track of the mileage we get from gasoline. But steady running is a test of only ONE KIND of power in a gasoline.

FOR ECONOMY on your frequent short trips—your stop-and-go driving—you need a gasoline with two additional kinds of power as well—power for quick starting and power for fast pickup.

4 out of every 5 miles you drive are within 25 miles of your home

Your Stop-and-Go Driving costs you too much—if your gasoline hasn't these Three Different Kinds of Power

You often start your engine 15 times a day, shift gears 60 times a day—as you "hop around" to the store...school...bank...office!

A "cold" start can use a "mile" of gasoline. And rapid accelerating can waste 33% more gasoline than steady running.

For economy in today's driving, your gasoline must have 3 kinds of power—power for QUICK STARTING, power for FAST PICKUP, power for STEADY RUNNING—and all in perfect balance.

Super-Shell, the first TRULY BALANCED gasoline, saves money in these 3 ways:

Can save up to a cupful of gasoline on every "Cold" Start. In summer or winter, Super-Shell starts instantly, often warms up in half the time of ordinary gasolines. So there's less choking and you use less gasoline. 16 cupfuls saved, remember, mount up to a whole gallon!

Can save up to a cupful of gasoline in 10 minutes of Hard Pulling. Because of its even volatility, you can accelerate rapidly or race your car up steep hills in high gear—on less gasoline! And what's more, you avoid that knocking which is a few minutes can waste up to 10 per cent of your power.

START USING this new-type gasoline today ... and start saving money. Remember, there is NO EXTRA CHARGE for it. On sale at more than 30,000 neighborly Shell stations from Coast to Coast.

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 9, 1935.

A MISFIT OFFICIAL

The continued eruptions of Secretary of Agriculture Linder, in which he reiterates his foolish contention that Georgia has the right to secede from the Union if it desires, is poppycock which can not only do no good but is holding the state up to ridicule of the nation.

Something should be done to gag
a state official so unwise in his utterances.

Newspapers in every section of the country are conspicuously displaying the emanations from this Georgia official, as evidenced by a two-column headline on the front page of Wednesday's issue of the Chattanooga Times, which reads:

"Linder contends Georgia has right to quit the Union."

To make matters worse, the Market Bulletin, published at the expense of the taxpayers of Georgia, is being used as the vehicle for the airing of the secession and race-mixing views of the secretary of agriculture.

Instead of being an aid to the farmers of Georgia in the production and marketing of their crops, as is its purpose, the Bulletin is now being largely devoted to the presentation of radical appeals to prejudice and passions and the innate contention that Georgia has a right to secede.

The use of the taxpayers' money for such a purpose is an outrage and should be put to an immediate end.

It is not surprising that the perversion of the Market Bulletin is being met with a rising tide of protest in all parts of the state.

The question of the right to se-cede was settled, once and for all, in one of the bloodiest wars of history.

It is unfortunate that at a time when the relations of the races are more peaceful and friendly than they have ever been, a state official of Georgia should attempt to gain cheap notoriety through waving the red flag of prejudice and passion.

To the outstanding credit of Governor Talmadge it can be said that he has contributed much to the creation of better understanding between the races by his recognition of the fact that the negro is entitled to fair and just treatment—an attitude that is approved by the overwhelming sentiment of the state.

Mr. Linder's deliberate efforts to stir up friction between the races is a base and ignoble perversion of the duties of the office he holds.

The sooner an end is put to his mouthing, the better it will be for the state.

NO PLACE FOR HASTE

The decision of the supreme court in which the railroad pension act is held unconstitutional was not unforeseen, as the act was hurriedly enacted at the closing session of the last congress and President Roosevelt upon signing it expressed the opinion that it was an imperfect measure.

Both railroad pensions and the full security program are worthy proposals but their effect will be so far-reaching as to make it better that ample time and thought be given to the preparation of such enactments as will be just to the beneficiaries and fair to the taxpayers.

With all the billions of dollars already appropriated, which, in the long run, must be paid for by the taxpayers, it will not be amiss to go slow in further involvement not only of the treasury but in the penalization of the taxpayers of the country.

Certainly it will be well to hold such measures in abeyance until business is restored to a substantial basis and until the country knows where it stands.

All things considered, the decision of the supreme court will prove to be beneficial, since it will permit the careful preparation at a more opportune time of a measure more capable of extending the security sought.

ITALY AND THE LEAGUE

Strong belief exists in European diplomatic circles that Italy may, as the result of her controversy with Abyssinia, quit the League of Nations, at least temporarily.

The flow of Italian troop ships through the Suez canal continued uninterrupted while the diplomatic representatives of the two nations attempted to reach an amicable settlement of the differences which have brought about the present tense situation. Following the failure of these conferences, Abyssinia applied to the League.

At the conferences Abyssinia offered to pay an indemnity for the Italians who died in the border incident at Ouala-Ouala some months ago; to withdraw her troops six miles from the Italian frontier of Erythrea and Somaliland; withdraw her objection to Italy's participation in the exploitation of the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railway line;
and agreed to launch a punitive expedition against the wild tribes who roam the northern part of her territory and who occasionally approach and overrun the borders of the Italian possessions.

Mussolini's reply was to order the mobilization of an expeditionary force, which is still proceeding.
Many diplomats of Europe believe that Mussolini obtained a free hand with respect to Abyssinia from Pierre Laval, French foreign minister, in their conference at Rome in February, the latter making the sole condition that the League of Nations be kept outside the dispute.

Abyssinia charges that Mussolini is endeavoring to force the cession to Italy of a stretch of territory and permission to run an Italian railroad from Erythrea to Somalilland, cutting squarely across Abyssinian territory.

Since both nations are members of the League, Italy cannot accomplish this purpose unless it follows the example of Japan and Germany in quitting the League, one in order to create the new state of Man-chukuo and the other to rearm, both of which steps had been devised by the League.

Already Germany, having accomplished her purpose, has expressed a willingness to return to the League.

So why, European sources inquire, cannot Italy give up the League membership temporarily, settle the dispute with Abyssinia on the basis desired, and make application for re-entrance to Geneva?

The only thing that stands in the way of such a plan is that it would inevitably mean the end of the League of Nations. With much of its prestige already gone, it could ill stand such a blow.

The average student is found to leave college with about the same economic slant he had when he came. Namely, that it's foolish to buy a hat.

It must be decorating time in London. A group of market speculators, buying up shellac, have varnished themselves into a corner.

Broadway is losing its touch.
With a swell build-up like the gold clause decision, it didn't try to book
the supreme court for 12 weeks

Well, quartermasters are the same the world over, and it is expected the Italian warriors in Africa will be issued their earmuffs and skis any day.

era in sport is done. As they interpret the gold clause decision they can pay off in old baseballs.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Blood

In Mecca.

Blood has flown at the Kaaba where no blood must ever flow. First, the 100,000 pilgrims in Mecca whispered the news. Camel drivers carried the tidings to Medina and Amman. Jerusalem heard of it. Cairo was stirred.
Swifter than short-length waves could bring the details, the holy cities of Persia and Morocco began to seethe with the rumor. Today the whole moslem world from India to Maure-tania and deep into the heart of Africa is commenting the occurrence. "Blood has been spilled at the Kaaba."

Emperor Haile Selassie attacked his majesty Abdullah, Aspin III, better known as Ibn Saoud. The murderers were crucified like snakes in the grass. Allah's hand protected Ibn Saoud

From Fez to Teheran jubilant prayers of thanksgiving are arising night and day for the king's deliverance.
Ibn Saoud lives. No murderer's hand can touch him again.

How many times in his life has the Wahabi king escaped the plots of assassins, daggers, poison, ambush and black magic? Surely, say the Muslim, God is with Ibn Saoud. Can there be any doubt that he is the elect of Allah, the successor of the prophet, destined to free Islam?

The Attempt.

Dressed in a simple white burnous, undistinguishable from the other pilgrims except by his unusual height, Ibn Saoud was making the obligatory rounds at the Kaaba, the stone in the square of Mecca. His son was walking behind him. As they walked they recited the sura of righteousness from the Koran. Suddenly a man jumped forward with a raised dagger. The knife came within an inch of Ibn Saoud's breast. But the king caught the murderer's arm, twisted it downward and the dagger clattered to the ground. At the same moment the Emir Abdul, Ibn Saoud's son, stabbed the murderer through the heart.

Two new attackers rushed from the crowd. The king killed the first; his son, the second. And so blood has flown at the Kaaba, where no blood must ever flow. Mohammed decreed this when he established Islam. He commanded that the Kaaba should be the holiest shrine in all the land.
Kings, emperors, sultans, sheiks and sheikhs, all have sanctified the Kaaba in the name of Allah.

Two new attacks followed. The reason why son James Roosevelt is going back to Hyde Park to attend the cows. The official explanation seems to be true as far as it goes. James has not been in good health and the estate needs managing.

The hidden supplement of the majority decision was: "It does not follow, as contended, that a man of 65 is inefficient or incompetent. The facts indicate a contrary conclusion."

This view was subscribed to by four Justices over 65 (Sutherland, McReynolds, Butler and Van Devanter) and one who is the baby of the court at 60, Mr. Roberts.

CAULKING.

A free guessing contest is on among insiders about the reason why son James Roosevelt is going back to Hyde Park to attend the cows. The official explanation seems to be true as far as it goes. James has not been in good health and the estate needs managing.

The hidden supplement of the majority decision was: "It is inefficient or incompetent. The facts indicate a contrary conclusion."

This view was subscribed to by four Justices over 65 (Sutherland, McReynolds, Butler and Van Devanter) and one who is the baby of the court at 60, Mr. Roberts.

PAST WORDS.

President Roosevelt first made known his attitude on the bonus in April, 1932. In an interview with James J. Montague, of the North American Newspaper Alliance, the president then said:

"I don't see how, as a matter of practical sense, a government running behind $2,000,000,000 annually can consider the anticipation of bonus payments until it has a balanced budget, not only on paper, but with a surplus in the treasury."

But in that same interview, Mr. Roosevelt also said budget deficits should not be permitted to continue for more than one year.

NOTES.

The final bonus law will contain a clause renouncing pensions for World War veterans, but no veteran needs to take that too seriously. Ten years ago, the Legion was against a bonus.
Ten years from now, there will be a pension system.

Railroads are going ahead on the theory that the court decision ruins federal pensioning plans for all time. Most large railroads have pension systems of their own, anyway.

The liberals have been secretly afraid all along that Justice Roberts would desert them. They regarded the labor decision as the first confirmation of their fears.

NRA officials now privately confess their organization is in a state of "progressive paralysis," but it continues to take on new workers. Six were hired in the last two weeks.

WORRY NOT ABOUT TOMORROW.

Rabbi Eleazar ben Azariah, while yet a very young man, was chosen to succeed the deposed Rabban Gamliel

When notified of this great honor,
he went to his wife and discussed

"Suppose they should also depose

"Why worry about tomorrow?" he replied. "Use the precious vase while

SADNESS ON

DEBATE ON REPEAL FOR JAYCEE LUNCH

Hastings and Howard To Take Opposing Sides in Forensic Duel.

As a feature of the closing days of the statewide campaign for repeal of the Jaycee lunch, a debate between leaders of both the repeal and prohibition groups will be staged at 12:45 o'clock tomorrow at the luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Ansley hotel.

The principals in the debate will be William G. Hastings, secretary of the Georgia Association for Local Option, speaking for repeal, and former Congressman William H. Schley, Howard, speaking for prohibition. The debate will be broadcast over station WGST.

Both Mr. Hastings and Mr. Howard will be allotted 15 minutes to present their views on the question.

W. A. Gandy, president of the bridgeview chairman of the local option association yesterday issued a statement in which he said repeal would win in Georgia and added that he expected a large vote in the referendum next Wednesday.

Success Sure.

The Griffin statement follows:

"Not unusual in the danger of being afflicted with lethargy as was the case with advocates of repeal in Alabama, the Georgia voter is determined to go to the polls and vote on May 15. The proponents of repeal outnumber the opponents of the measure by a wide margin in our state, and enough of these favorable voters will cast their ballots to insure success on election day."

"Bootleggers and whisky interests have carried their nefarious plans so far forward that it is even apparent to the very myopic. Linked with this class are those who are engaged in various nefarious practices in Georgia and are working and jumping in spans mode fits of blind desperation for a cause which has failed and is doomed in Georgia. The latter have been free in their condemnation of the leaders for repeal as well as the legislature which passed the bill subtending the nation to the people of the state. Most notable of these subtle accusations was made by Judge Ogden Parsons, of Forsyth, and should not go unchallenged either by the leaders of the repeal movement or the 112 members of the legislature who voted for the bill. His statement is as follows:

"What a business bonanza to grant to the repealists! The people of Georgia, surprised that the lobby for the hotel association worked so hard in the preparation and passage of this bill? What did it cost them, and to whom did they pay their money? If they paid it without cost, how generous were their legislative friends to them?"

OFFICERS GATHER HERE FOR MEETING

County and Peace Officers Association in Convention Today.

Delegates to the annual convention of Georgia County and Peace Officers' Association began arriving yesterday and evidence was that attendance will exceed more than 1,000 out-of-town guests. Registration will begin this morning with John G. Richardson, of Hartwell, Ga., who has installed a registration booth in the lobby of the Ansley hotel, where headquarters for the convention have been established.

Delegates are urged to register early this morning in order that the initial meeting may get under way with full attendance at 10 o'clock. Peace officers, which term includes all law-enforcing officers and those connected with the courts and the ordinary's offices throughout the state, are invited to join the association, which has not already done so. Membership dues are $3 annually, and there is no registration fee.

Visitors not connected with the organization but who are interested in law and order are invited to attend the meeting this morning. The hotel address of Hotel H. Clegg, assistant director of the United States Department of Justice, Clegg will be introduced by Solicitor-General John A. Boykin.

Morning Program.

The meeting will be called to order at 10 o'clock by J. Gordon Hardin, developer of the Fulton county and general convention chairman, whose invocation will be by the Rev. Louis D. Newton, pastor of Druid Hills Baptist church. Mayor Shadell will follow with a welcoming address on behalf of the city of Atlanta and will be followed by Wiley L. Moore, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, who will speak on "The City". Clark Howell Sr. will express appreciation of the co-operation of the Department of Justice and the meeting will then be turned over to the president, Ben T. Watkins.

Governor Talmadge's address at 12:30 will conclude the morning program.

Afternoon Program.

The afternoon program will feature addresses by Usher T. Winslett, tax collector of Bibb county, vice president of the tax collectors' group; Judge E. D. White, ordinary of Laurens county, vice president of the ordinaries' group; J. H. Langford, court clerk, of Watkinsville, Ga., who is vice president of the clerks' group. Presiding Watkins will then deliver the annual president's address.

Following adjournment the ladies will be taken on a tour of the city, and will afterward be guests at a tea at the Woman's Club.

All guests will attend a dance on the Ansley roof beginning at 9:30 o'clock tonight.

Other entertainment features planned include a reception for the ladies at the gubernatorial mansion and dinner at East Lake Country Club, to be climaxed by a barbecue for all Friday at Lakewood park, at which "Big Bill" Turner will be in charge of festivities.

100-POUND TUMOR TO BE REMOVED FROM NEGRO'S BODY

SHREVEPORT, La., May 8.—(UPI)—A 46-year-old negro woman with a 100-pound tumor is being treated by a Shreveport doctor, who hopes to remove the huge growth within a three-months period if all goes well.

The woman, Ella Carter, of Shreveport, came under a doctor's care several weeks ago when she caught a cold. The pressure of the tumor against her heart and thorax caused much discomfort and she was forced to seek medical aid, after spurning it for many years.

Dr. Erle W. Harris, surgeon of the Tri-State clinic here, is treating the woman. Dr. Harris said that it was the largest tumor he has treated and that it would be necessary to decompress, the growth considerably before it would be possible to remove the said tumor.

With the tumor removed for treatment she weighed 220 pounds. The tumor extended over the antro-abdominal portion of her body and protruded about 18 inches. It is described as an ovarian cyst which covers nearly all of the interior of her body.

The people of Georgia's Mr. Fleetwood continued, "who are forever more tired of this interference of Washington's bureaucrats in the internal affairs of Georgia, will deeply resent this new attack on our state from Washington. Georgians are certainly capable of handling the affairs of their own state and we predict that they will prove it at the special election next Wednesday, May 15."

CORNELL UNIVERSITY OFFERS SCHOLARSHIPS

Scholarships of $200 annually available to first-year men are announced by the college of engineers of Cornell University. The scholarships are made possible through the bequest of the late John A. McMullen, of Norfolk, Conn.

The United States has been divided into 15 districts, with one award to be made annually in each district. Applications blanks will be sent to the principal of outstanding high schools in the country to be filled out by leading students interested in engineering. The applications are to be mailed to the dean of the college of engineering and the final selection of the candidate will be made by a group of alumni in each district.

Anne Cannon Assists Father in Balm Suit

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 8.—(UPI)—Anne Cannon, daughter of Cannon Reynolds Smith today came to her father's defense in the $250,000 alienation of affections suit brought by her former husband, F. Brandon Smith Jr.

Denying her father, Joseph Cannon, Concord millionaire, influenced his decision to divorce his 29-year-old Charlotte real estate operator, the young textile fortunes heiress with a broad smile told the jury:

"Brandon was dumb and I was dumb for living with him. The only reason I married him was to get a home," she added and he was "dumb because he lived with me over a year."

Before Anne took the jury stand, her father spent two and a half hours in the witness chair under questioning concerning his character and habits.

Lung Punctured, Man "Inflates" And "Deflates" as Doctors Work

ANNISTON, Ala., May 8.—(UPI)—Physicians here operated on J. R. Ragsdale, 25-year-old ice trucker, ready to puncture him, if necessary, to relieve pain as he re-inflated in his left side from an injured lung.

Medical authorities, who pronounced his condition as "emphysema," recalled only one parallel case, although it is not rare but usually limited to a local area.

In Ragsdale's case, however, air from a puncture in his left lung has been leaking into the tissues of his entire left side from the shoulder to the hip, causing his slowly inflate or "balloon."

"He is progressing nicely," said his attending physician, "and unless complications develop should recover."

"Unless the 'inflation' continues until it impedes blood circulation in the skin, it will be necessary to puncture at an early date."

"Piercing complications, the lung puncture will heal, shutting off the air now going into the tissues."

Ragsdale's temperature this afternoon was almost normal, but his respiration was slightly accelerated. Seated visitors were being administered to keep him quiet as possible.

Physicians said there was no pain and only moderate discomfort from the "inflation" process at work in the tissues of his left side.

The patient was strapped tightly with adhesive tape last night when it was discovered that he was becoming "inflated" and at the same time it appeared the "deflation" had begun. During the forenoon, however, the "inflation" was again noticed and it continued through the day.

The attending physician said the

Four Are Sentenced On Robbery Charges

Albert Douglas, 24-year-old Atlanta youth, was given sentence totaling 8 to 12 years yesterday by Judge James C. Davis in Fulton superior court after a jury had found him guilty of the robberies of Cox-Carlton hotel and Wall Dry Cleaning Company last December 8 and 9. Douglas' attorney said a motion for new trial will be filed.

John A. Brown, Dan Tolbert and Mrs. Alice Brown, his wife, indicted in the same cases, pleaded guilty and Tolbert and Brown were given six to ten years each, while Mrs. Brown was given two sentences of 12 months each and one month in jail, the court reducing the charge to a misdemeanor. Judge Davis specified the woman must serve one month, leaving the matter of parole to the probation officer.

BETTY AND BENNY DEFY DEATH TODAY

times during the performance, at 3, 5 and 7 o'clock when Betty, the 22-year-old heroine of the team, will bend over backward into space and without a hand hold of any kind and attempt to pick up a handkerchief lying on a wire two feet below the level of the platform. Should the pretty college graduate lose her balance at any time in the three attempts at thefeat, there is nothing between her and the street 170 feet below.

Five Faultless Years.

Betty, however, has been dancing in the sky with her brother for the past three years and before that she underwent rigorous training for two years, making her total experience five years without a slip.

One of the greatest hazards of the performance is the matter of hours. There is considerable fatigue acquired in a continuous nerve-racking performance of six hours when every muscle and every nerve must be perfectly attuned to all the time. The slightest distraction might be fatal to either or both of the performers.

In Glass of Lights.

With the coming of night Betty and Benny's performance will become more difficult. They will work in the blinding glare of a battery of spotlights and sight is one of the essentials to balance. Through the entire six hours of the exhibition the couple will perform and dance in rhythm to the blare of four loud speakers which will play fox trots, waltzes and tap numbers.

The only food the intrepid couple will eat during their entire performance will be milk which will be served to them. Solid foods might result in digestive disturbances which would be extremely dangerous, Benny said. Every slight advantage of any possible safety factor must be taken.

The couple will appear on the stage at 10:30 P.M. immediately after the conclusion of their performance and again at a later show, it was announced yesterday.

Present among the spectators will be Betty's wife with the four children. The oldest is 6 and the youngest only 18 days, but Mrs. Fox will be on hand to view her husband's daredevil stunt. It would be worthwhile to fathom her feelings as he goes through his death-defying feats.

Betty and Benny have brought to Atlanta under the sponsorship of The Constitution, Foremost Dairies, Inc., Mather Bros. Furniture Co., Belle Isle Garage, Congress Clothes, Harvey's Restaurant, Lawrence's Ready-to-Wear, West Lumber Company, Pinson Tire Company, Dr. Bender Orthopedic Shop, Lyle and Gordon's Barber, Wristplate Flower Shop, Dr. Barron's Health Clinic, Lyle and Gaston Snapshot Service Stations, Ernest G. CHILD HEALTH GROUP MEETS HERE MAY 15

Program of the first annual meeting of the Georgia Child Health and Welfare Council, to be held at the Piedmont Hotel Wednesday, May 15, was announced yesterday. The meeting will include members from 130 of Georgia's counties will be addressed by Miss Gay Shepperson emergency relief administrator for Georgia, on the subject of "The Problems of Child Welfare as Uncovered by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration Program"; by Dr. James E. Paulin, president of the Medical Association of Georgia; "Organized Medicine Aids Towards a Child Health and Welfare Problem"; by Dr. Ethel Dunham, assistant director of the Children's Bureau, Washington, D.C., on "Security for Children".

Dr. M. Hines Roberts will introduce Dr. Dunham, Dr. T. F. Abercrombie will introduce Dr. Paulin and Thomas B. Minns will introduce Miss Shepperson.

A section on public health and medicine will be conducted by Drs. R. C. Moore and A. L. Schreiber; a section on welfare will be led by Mr. Minns and the section on education will be led by Dr. Willis Sutton.

DROWNED BOY FOUND FLOATING IN CREEK

The body of James Drykins, 12-year-old negro youth drowned during the heavy rainstorm last Monday when he sought shelter in a culvert under the A., B. & C. railroad tracks, was recovered yesterday nearly four miles from the scene of the accident.

The negro youth's body was discovered in the creek below Rockdale Park by James Turner, of 20 Sims avenue. Mr. Turner was fishing when he saw the body floating in the creek. It was removed by a local undertaker.

The long and short of it all is that Talmadge has started his political existence on the failure of the New Deal.

On the other hand President Roosevelt is banking on the New Deal and the $4,880,000,000 relief and public works bonanza to return the country to prosperity.

With $4,880,000,000 to spend over the country giving the poor the food and the clothing they must have to exist, giving the public the improvements demanded and the politicians the money to spend, something to buck up against is developed.

Roosevelt is confident that the New Deal with money to prime the pump will bring about permanent recovery.

If his theory pans out Talmadge's future is very dim.

Talmadge is confident that the New Deal will prove a failure, that the $4,880,000,000 will not result in any permanent economic improvement but on the other hand will put the country on the road to ruin.

If he is right and Roosevelt is wrong Talmadge will be a national force next year.

If he is wrong, it is a case of political suicide.

It's a great game of poker.

The showdown is a long way off. Both are standing pat. If the showdown shows that the New Deal holds four aces in Roosevelt's hands Talmadge's campaign against it will wind up his four kings.

If the New Deal fails Talmadge may hold the four aces and take the pot.

Regardless of the outcome Talmadge has already put too many chips in there to throw down his hand.

He is headed far down the road from which there is no turning back.

MANY TELEGRAMS LAUD TALMADGE RADIO SPEECH

Returning to his offices at the capitol after his Washington speech, Governor Talmadge yesterday received a large stack of telegrams congratulating him on the address. The messages came from all over the country and included many from Atlanta residents.

The scope of the telegrams was evidenced by the fact that some were from California and others from Maine.

Here are a few of those received by the governor:

"Your radio address was a masterpiece of statesmanship, sound economics and good common sense. I am proud to have the privilege of living in a state whose chief executive is a real statesman of vision, wisdom and integrity." —T. M. Forbes, Atlanta.

"Congratulations on a brilliant and stirring address." Matthew J. McCabe, Newark.

"Congratulations on your inspiring message." Richard Teising, Chicago.

"Congratulations on your wonderful speech; brimful of common sense and sound reasoning." Eugene Culver, Miami.

"Heartiest congratulations on your talk. More common sense in a half-thought nothing of performing at the dizzy heights they now use.

Betty, also, will perform some thrilling feats for the thousands of spectators who are expected to gather for the performance. Immediately after his sister's daring balancing act, he will walk around the platform on his head and do other breath-taking stunts with total disregard for the penalty a slip would mean.

One of the greatest hazards of the performance is the matter of hours. There is considerable fatigue acquired in a continuous nerve-racking performance of six hours when every muscle and every nerve must be perfectly attuned to all the time. The slightest distraction might be fatal to death this state has ever seen. It may come yet.

On the other hand, if Talmadge should decide to run for governor and it develops that the new constitutional amendment providing for a four-year term for the state's chief executive permits him to run, the close observers of state politics are known to feel that Talmadge would win regardless of his feeling toward Roosevelt and the status of the New Deal in September, 1936. For even Talmadge's severest critics today admit that he has made Georgia a notable executive. He has practically paid the state out of debt. He has reduced taxes and he has reduced utility and freight rates, one of the few rate reductions effected anywhere in the nation.

These observers feel that should Talmadge decide to want to stay where he is, he could lambast Roosevelt and the New Deal until the crack of doom.

Those who relish an old-fashioned political fight between two popular men had been expecting that Talmadge and Russell would battle it out next year. It would be or would have been (as the case may be) one of the greatest battles unto political death this state has ever seen. It may come yet.

On the other hand, if Talmadge should decide to run for governor and it develops that the new constitutional amendment providing for a four-year term for the state's chief executive permits him to run, the close observers of state politics are known to feel that Talmadge would win regardless of his feeling toward Roosevelt and the status of the New Deal in September, 1936. All Talmadge Men.

Senate President Charles D. Redwine, of Fayetteville; Speaker of the House, E. D. Rivers, of Lakeland; John S. Wood, former congressman, of Canton, are all prospective gubernatorial candidates and are Talmadge men.

Abi Nix, of Athens, and Judge Pittman, both anti-Talmadge, are prospective candidates. And others are in the offing."

But Talmadge said in his speech Tuesday night that "we're going to beat Roosevelt in 1936."

That indicates that he will be in national politics from now on.

How's he going to get there?

There are two chief avenues open to him and to his.

One is the third party. There is always talk of a third party and Talmadge himself has said there will be a third party in the field. It may be a coalition of anti-Roosevelt republicans and anti-Roosevelt democrats. It may be made up only of anti-Roosevelt democrats who will bid for support from all republicans, anti-Hoover and Hoover and from the scattered members of minor parties, the farmer-labor group, the Nonpartisan League, and others.

The second, which may be the first avenue opened, is knock down and draw out fight for the democratic presidential nomination.

Talmadge has said that the biggest democratic convention will be the one outside convention hall.

Must Run in Primary.

The governor cannot but make a preferential primary race in Georgia next spring. The Roosevelt forces cannot but combat him. If Talmadge wins the state delegation he will be in a commanding position at the Roosevelt convention. If he loses the state race his position will not be so strong. But it seems that he'll be there right on, though the lane that has no turning.

The long and short of it all is that Talmadge has started his political existence on the failure of the New Deal.

CREDIT CLUB LEADERS REPLY TO RADIO SPEECH

BARNESVILLE, Ga., May 8.—(AP)—Harvey C. Kennedy and Mrs. W. R. Simpson, chairman and co-chairman, respectively, of the state organization of the "Give the Credit Club" of Georgia, issued the following statement today, on the radio speech of Governor Talmadge:

"To sum up Talmadge's radio talk it is obvious that he is reactionary, not progressive; also that he is against the farmer, the laborer, the poor and all whom the government aids and helps. He is in favor of big business and the republican party. But since the farmer, the laborer, the poor and those helped by the present administration could not pay for his nation-wide radio hook-up, it is no small wonder that he spoke as he did.

"Democrats and farmers of Georgia made Eugene Talmadge, and now he has deserted and forsaken both. Some time ago, the farmers of Georgia in voting overwhelmingly for the Bankhead bill in effect told Talmadge in no uncertain terms to aid our president and his recovery program. Talmadge disregarded their wishes entirely. Today he is being repudiated by farmers in every section of Georgia. Still, he will not listen to their voices."

Peachtree Garden Club Names Sextet of Junior Members

By Sally Forth.

THE responsibilities of that pioneer among Georgia Garden Clubs, the Peachtree Garden Club, will eventually descend upon the shoulders of six capable young women who have been chosen junior members of the organization. From their mothers, who are charter members of the club, they have inherited a sincere love of the organization, the oldest garden club in the city, so Sally is informed, and are deeply appreciative of its worth-while projects.

Composing the sextet of junior members are Louise Calhoun, daughter of Mrs. Andrew Calhoun, founder of the Peachtree Club; Caroline Paulin Minnich, daughter of Mrs. J. E. Paulin; Josephine Richardson Adair, daughter of Mrs. Hugh Richardson; Mary Goddard Pickens, daughter of Mrs. John Goddard; Mimi Fleming, daughter of Mrs. Malcolm Fleming, and Mrs. William Nixon, the former Betty Matthews, of Thomaston.

Since their grammar school days these young girls have listened to their mothers' chat of the club's activities. They have assisted in selecting beautiful blossoms from their gardens to exhibit at the club's shows and have taken part in the activities. To their roles as junior members they will bring a wealth of artistic ability inherited from their mothers, coupled with their own youthful enthusiasm which clothes their interesting doings.

Already they are in harness, for they have been put in charge of the popularity contest which will be an unusual feature of the Peachtree Garden Club's flower show which opens today at 671 Peachtree street. Upon entering the show, each guest will be presented a card and will be allowed a personal ballot for the best exhibit. Junior members will present the cards and will be in charge of the postoffice to take care of the votes after the guests have viewed the exhibits.

WORD has come to Sally's ears, aent the flower show, that the lovely miniature gardens about which you've heard so much, will be on display at Gresham's at 652 Peachtree street all next week.

Which is a great relief to Sally, for just a glimpse at the amount of work going into them convinced her that it would be stark tragedy to destroy them after a two-day showing. Mrs. L. C. Daingerfield, alone, has put 257 hours of concentrated labor into her exhibit.

Of course, you know Mrs. Daingerfield, who is president of the Planters' Garden Club, is chairman of the miniature gardens. And her appointment is a stroke of sheer genius, for no one can forget her artistic ability as displayed at previous flower shows.

Her co-chairman is Mrs. Dudley Cowles, and they are assisted by a capable trio including Mrs. Tom Daniel, Mrs. H. Berhard Scott and Mrs. Neal Conrad.

ATLANTA telephones were kept busy all day Wednesday with friends passing on the news that Baby Freddie Fry had arrived. With a host of cousins, and countless friends, Sally wired congratulations to the parents, Freddie and Jaquelin Moore Fry. The reason for this unusual interest is because the baby's mother was before her marriage one of Atlanta's most popular belles. It seems only a few years ago since Jaquelin was a mere child herself. During her young girlhood she endeared herself to older and younger Atlanta society by her exquisite renditions on the harp as well as by her gracious manner.

Baby Freddie was greeted upon his arrival Wednesday by his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Wilmer Moore, who is visiting her son and daughter in Newark, N. J. It is easy to visualize the beaming countenance of Grandmother Moore when she held her infant grandson in her arms. Sally wagers that the joyful expression did not exceed that of Mr. Moore when he received the telegram informing him that he was a grandfather.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Fry, of Newark, N. J., announce the birth of a son on Wednesday, May 8, who has been named Fred Jr., for his paternal grandfather, Fred Jr. Fry. Mrs. Fry was, before her marriage, Miss Janette Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Moore, of this city.

Miss Agnes Jarnigan, of Athens, will spend the weekend with Miss Kathryn Jetton at her home on Penn Avenue street all next week.

Which is a great relief to Sally, for just a glimpse at the amount of work going into them convinced her that it would be stark tragedy to destroy them after a two-day showing. Mrs. L. C. Daingerfield, alone, has put 257 hours of concentrated labor into her exhibit.

Of course, you know Mrs. Daingerfield, who is president of the Planters' Garden Club, is chairman of the miniature gardens. And her appointment is a stroke of sheer genius, for no one can forget her artistic ability as displayed at previous flower shows.

Her co-chairman is Mrs. Dudley Cowles, and they are assisted by a capable trio including Mrs. Tom Daniel, Mrs. H. Berhard Scott and Mrs. Neal Conrad.

ATLANTA telephones were kept busy all day Wednesday with friends passing on the news that Baby Freddie Fry had arrived. With a host of cousins, and countless friends, Sally wired congratulations to the parents, Freddie and Jaquelin Moore Fry. The reason for this unusual interest is because the baby's mother was before her marriage one of Atlanta's most popular belles. It seems only a few years ago since Jaquelin was a mere child herself. During her young girlhood she endeared herself to older and younger Atlanta society by her exquisite renditions on the harp as well as by her gracious manner.

Friendly Counsel By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care of The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I am disgusted with these married women who are always complaining that they have good husbands yet don't love them and are playing with the thought of divorce. The husbands would probably be better off if the wives went through with their plans but, for the wives themselves, it seems to me to be folly worse confounded. If they could only look into the hearts of us lonely men, they would get down on their knees and thank God for their good fortune. I will soon be 40 years old and have never known anything but loneliness and heartache. Too timid to make close friends, I still have all the longings of a normal human being; longing for friends for a husband, for a family, for a home. I must get these things seem to be lacking in my case. I am sure I have the capacity for loyal friendship. I know I would be a good housewife. How we suffer our solitary women who must carry on despite the fact that nobody cares! These complaining married women should think of us and change their tunes.

ANSWER:

We never know when we are well off in this world and most of us are always looking at our neighbors and friends, envying them a bit and believing that were we in their places we would be content. Every heart knows the bitterness of another's pain, the bitterness of another's heart. Nobody can argue that the completed life is not the best for a woman. Normally she wants a husband, a home, a family of children and a circle of friends. An empty heart, like an empty stomach, protests before it starts. But she started last night as a girl, one cut digest makes a pain just like real food that can't be digested. That's what troubles some of these complaining wives. They carry a pain in the heart all the time.

Perhaps it is natural for the unmarried woman who is struggling single-handed to look on others who have somebody between them and the cold, cold world, to imagine that this fact alone is enough to make a woman who lives in a rented room to look enviously at the lighted living room of the cottage where husband and wife and children appear to be having a good time together. But there may be heartaches in the group and there certainly are problems that she knows not of.

True there are not enough men to go around, always more women than men in the world, but some of the up-and-going girls manage to find several husbands before they get through. Don't think they sit still and do nothing but consider their qualifications for wifehood and cry over lack of opportunity of exercising them. No, they go about on still hunts for what they want. They conduct intelligent campaigns and bring them to successful completion with wily ways and incessant work.

Timidity is a bad companion to live with. It will cut a woman out of everything worth while, including a husband. Every friendship is a link in a chain that leads to another. She must learn to widen her horizon, give her the interests that she is hungry for and make her see many things to which her inhibiting timidity blinds her.

Then, if, in the end, the search for a husband is futile, she can adjust herself to the idea of single blessedness and make the best of it. She has. She can look around her at innumerable married women who areretched and solace herself with the sight of them. She can see on every hand children who have turned out badly in spite of the love and high hopes of their parents. She can say to herself, "At least I have been spared the suffering of having to rear children and also the heartbreak of seeing them dismal failures."

So long as she sits still and mores her plight, doing nothing to better her condition, isn't she guilty of a similar offense to that of the complaining wives who disgust her? Because her eyes are not set, nor does she want it to be, so she forgets to be thankful for her good fortune which many of the complaining wives might envy her: independence, no heavy responsibilities, no carking cares, freedom to do what she likes when she likes it.

PRE-MOTHER'S DAY PROGRAM BY LEGION

Atlanta No. 1, American Legion, will join the national organization in commemorating motherhood in a Pre-Mother's Day service to be held Friday night at post headquarters, 18-21 Auburn avenue, according to Commander Kenneth Murrell, of the post. The Legions will meet jointly with the ladies auxiliary to the Legion.

A special program has been prepared for the services and principal addresses will be on the theme, "Making Motherhood Safer for Mothers," the theme suggested by the national organization which is working in cooperation with the Maternity Center Association of New York and the United States Children's Bureau at Washington.

The program for the service follows:

Invention, Rev. Thomas E. Baker, chaplain. Song "Mother Marches," solo and chorus. Music by College Park Junior Legion drum corps Post 59.

Address by Commander Kenneth Murrell, of the post. "What Constitutes Adequate Maternity Care."

"Maternity Care," address by Mrs. Lillian Alexander Austin. Song by the entire assembly. "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

Cuban imports from Japan increased 26 per cent in the last year while imports from the United States in the same period advanced 82 per cent.

Deadly Defensive Weapons Evolved Secretly by U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(P)—With rapid-fire navy guns, a new high speed army tank and more powerful explosives to the forefront, the nation's military forces were reported today to have evolved in secret a lengthening list of deadly defense devices.

Guarded jealously from public scrutiny, the new inventions reportedly were nearer perfection than the result of months of public expense.

Officials were reticent even to name some of the weapons and scientific devices now being developed. But a survey today listed some of these new assurances against foreign invasion.

The army:

Still unphotographed, 7 and 15-ton tanks with improved armor protection and greater speed over a speed range of 70 miles an hour over 40 miles.

Fast light combat cars equipped with sponge rubber tires, turrets, .50 caliber machine gun and one-pounders;

A pack howitzer which, though it weighs only 2,700 pounds, is claimed by experts to shoot as far as the famous

French 75-mm gun of the World War;

Semi-automatic rifles for doughboys with three times the firing speed of the standard Springfield rifle.

The air:

One and six-inch rapid-fire guns with greater ranges and armor-piercing power, more than 250 of which are being manufactured at the naval gun factory here;

Greater fuel efficiency for boosting striking cruising radius; ammunition through projectiles further and makes tanks more mobile.

New chemical warfare defenses, diversions of rescue boats for rescuing crews of sunken submarines; sound detectors for locating enemy submarine, surface vessels and aircraft; stronger and lighter armor; gyro control for rangefinders.

Fast and more powerfully armored planes; larger machine gun armament; more penetrating bombs; more destructive bombs; new anti-aircraft guns with director fire control; greater efficiency in power-dive bombing; development of gigantic flight formations; protection against radio interference; arresting gears for aircraft carriers.

Mrs. Ritchie Stresses Responsibility Of Members in Federation Address

By BESSIE S. STAFFORD, Editor of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs.

VALDOSTA, Ga., May 8.—In her address "Surveying the Highways of Tomorrow," Wednesday evening at the auditorium of Daniel Ashburn, she told delegates attending the sixth biennial council of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens, president of the organization, stressed the responsibility of individual members in achieving the federation's objectives. She informed the convention that "Whither Have Ye Built a Road Today?" was defining a definite daily movement toward child welfare, social service, education and citizenship, the federation's major goals. She cited the child as being the center of activity, and in outlining the needs of tomorrow's children, Mrs. Ritchie emphasized the importance of health and strength in order to stand the strain, the tension and the speed of the years to come.

She believes a more serious sense of personal responsibility is required so that civilization shall not find itself destroyed because of its successes, still declared the upbuilding of child-welfare "the objective and reason for existence." Her question, "What Is It Doing?" was given high school students as the essay subject. J. William Green, of Smyrna, R. F. D., won first prize and $100; given Broxton Woman's Club, of which he is a member. Third prize was won by Mrs. A. C. Skelton, of Hartwell, and Hartwell Woman's Club to which she belongs, was awarded $5.

"Life Insurance—What It Is and What It Does" was given high school students as the essay subject. J. William Green, of Smyrna, R. F. D., won first prize and $100; given Broxton Woman's Club, of which he is a member. Third prize was won by Mrs. A. C. Skelton, of Hartwell, and Hartwell Woman's Club to which she belongs, was awarded $5.

The 1930 convention of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs will be held in Augusta, at invitation of Augusta Woman's Club. Mrs. A. H. Johnson, first vice president of the state federation, presented the invitation from the Augusta club, of which Mrs. Clarence Durial is president.

Thursday's Education Program. Addresses to be heard during the education period on Thursday will be on the subject "The School of Tomorrow." Speakers will be educators, including L. M. Lester, of the state department of education, who is chairman of the committee; and Dr. E. W. C. Miller, of Atlanta, who will speak on the duty of suggesting changes in the courses of study to meet the needs of today's youth. B. M. Grier, superintendent of Athens schools, is a member of this committee, and has been using his school system as a laboratory for a study of possible revisions. It is necessary to obtain an expression of the opinions of the general laymen and parents of the school, and this committee on education, G. F. W. C. Miller, has made his plans.

In order to find out what the women want the school to do and to do for the children, a questionnaire has been prepared by the department of education and the committee in charge of the revision of the curriculum. She believes he should be given a chance to express his desire as to what shall constitute a well-equipped product of the public schools; an opportunity to express their opinion as to how well the public school is functioning now; providing such a product; an opportunity for suggesting the changes which they believe will improve the situation.

The state president, Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, expresses the belief that this questionnaire is the most valuable service to education which has been offered to the women of Georgia in many years, and hopes the women will take it very seriously and seriously to heart.

Ralph McGill, that well-known sports writer of The Constitution, who knows more about predicting the winner of the Kentucky Derby than he does about clubwomen, speaks on the Thursday program. He was assigned the subject, "The Press—A Highway to Successful Service," and Mr. McGill is certain to bring forward important parts the press plays in furthering the activities of the state federation.

Mrs. Ritchie declared that women are hearing the call to arms in defense of ideals of home and country. "Let us pray," said she, "that earnest and willing will be the workers and that we will answer resolute and undaunted the challenge of the hour."

Hoyt Davis, of the Atlanta attorney for the middle district of Georgia, spoke on "Today's Road in Crime Control." He urged clubwomen to create a wholesome sentiment and respect for law and enforcement agencies, to give children through education and spiritual development strength, will, tenacity and stimulate impulses to do right, and see that just execution of the law in their respective communities is not frustrated and hampered by so-called political leaders or other persons desiring to shield the guilty.

Insurance Essay Prizes.

The insurance division of the federation of women, Mrs. R. E. McRae of Fitzgerald, is chairman, sponsored a prize essay contest with the approval of the executive board. Essays were limited to 500 words and the contest was open to Georgia clubwomen and students in the eighth to twelfth grades, inclusive, including students in private, church and parochial, as well as public schools.

Prizes of industrial chemicals on "Family Security Through Life Insurance," included Miss Geraldine Noell, of Comer, who was given $30 for first prize. By virtue of her membership in Comer Woman's Club, and the sum of $10 each was awarded the club and district. Miss Vera Gibbs, of Broxton, won $20 for second best essay, and $10 was given Broxton Woman's Club, of which she is a member. Third prize was won by Mrs. A. C. Skelton, of Hartwell, and Hartwell Woman's Club to which she belongs, was awarded $5.

"Life Insurance—What It Is and What It Does" was given high school students as the essay subject. J. William Green, of Smyrna, R. F. D., won first prize and $100; given Broxton Woman's Club, of which he is a member. Third prize was won by Mrs. A. C. Skelton, of Hartwell, and Hartwell Woman's Club to which she belongs, was awarded $5.

Crackers Split Bill With Travelers, Winning, 6-4, Losing, 5-2

The "meanest" man in baseball? Why, Jo Jo White, the Tigah Man from Georgia. He says so himself. Says it with a slow grin on his face. But he means it.

It was but a few days ago that I was standing in the Kingsway hotel lobby at St. Louis, where those Detroit Tigers had come to play the hapless Browns.

Some of the Detroit baseball reporters were talking with three or four players asking about the fastest man, the slowest man—one of those sort of stories one is driven to on rainy days.

And up strolled the dapper and pleasant young man from College Park, Ga. (May I say from Atlanta?)

"I'm the meanest," he said, grinning. And then began to ask about the folks from Atlanta. But you know, I think he meant it. That "meanest" man idea.

Because the Detroit baseball reporters said so later.

That Tigah Man," they confided, "is trying to be just like Ty Cobb. He's playing with more dash than ever. And he's out to break the base-stealing record. He's got half the second basemen and shortstops in the American league scared of him and they'll all be that way before he's through.

"Why, he comes whirling down to second to steal it, and he's mean. He's shooting for that bag and if there are some legs in the way it's all the same to him. He isn't trying to spike anyone, but the boys had best draw back those legs. He's playing hard and fast and he's a better ball player than ever before."

Which is not a bad tribute to the boy. He looked good, something like a movie star, that evening. And not at all like "The Tigah Man—the meanest man in baseball."

He's a great boy, the boy from Atlanta. Pardon me, College Park, I mean.

COCHRANE AND DIXIE HOWELL.

Cochrane talked well of Dixie Howell, the Rose Bowl star who is playing with Birmingham, down here in our set.

"Howell," he said, "looks like a real prospect. I think he is an outfielder and not an infielder. I didn't try to change him a great deal. He'll learn better by playing."

"I could have placed him with several teams but I sent him back to Birmingham for a reason. The boy was trying so hard he wasn't giving himself a chance. I figured that if he were sent back to play among his own people he would do better and learn faster than if I sent him to some town where they might have been hostile to his mistakes."

All of which is excellent reasoning. And Howell, I know, prefers to play the outfield.

Cochrane is a great fellow. He knows the value of newspaper in baseball and appreciates the space which baseball gets.

A PELICAN MAKES GOOD.

George Moriarty, the American league umpire, thinks that Ray Hughes, the rookie shortstop who broke in and stayed in with the Cleveland Indians, is the best shortstop he has ever seen come up to the majors, and he has peered at quite a few.

Hughes, who came to the Pelicans from Zanesville in the Middle Atlantic league, broke in with the Indians when Knickerbocker, the regular infielder, was forced to undergo an operation for appendicitis. The appendix has long healed. In fact, the operation is forgot. But Hughes is still at shortstop.

George Moriarty seems to be a lot like the late Wilbert Robinson. It was his idea that he could look at a man's legs and determine whether he was an athlete. It was he who coined the expression, "A man is as good as his legs."

Moriarty declared he could pick out Hughes if he were looking under a fence and could see nothing but the boy's legs.

He isn't a strong hitter but he fields and throws and his hitting is improving.

HARRIS LIKES NATS, YANKEES IN OPEN RACE

New York Strongest Club Senators Have Faced This Season.

ST. LOUIS, May 8.—(P)—Bucky Harris, back at the helm of his first love, the Washington Senators, can't see any standouts in the American league pennant race.

"I thought the race was open when it started," he explained today.

"Now, after a couple of weeks, I think it's even more open."

Harris picked the Yankees as the strongest club faced thus far by the Senators. And he likes the chances of his own team.

The Washington manager was willing to go even farther than Connie Mack, who today gave all teams in the circuit, except St. Louis and Philadelphia, a fighting chance.

"Philadelphia will be better when Higgins gets back at third," he continued, asserting further that the Browns are not as bad as they have looked.

"I have seen four other clubs in the lead this year," Harris continued. "You have played New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago. To my mind, New York is by far the strongest of the four."

"As a matter of fact, having met four of the eight clubs in the league, I figure my own club, Washington, is as strong as any of them."

"Oh, yes, I have only .500, and we are other clubs over that mark, but it's a bit too early to pay off on this 154-furlong race."

"The other clubs? Well, Detroit is an enigma. May be great, may be terrible. Philadelphia will be better when Higgins gets back at third. Boston? Well, now, don't get me wrong. You know, we are the last club last year. I'd put them today right in the same class as Detroit—an enigma."

"As a matter of fact, the whole race is an enigma. No club is racing to run away with the flag this year."

MARTIN REMAINS AS LEAGUE HEAD

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 8.—(UP) John D. Martin, Memphis attorney, sworn in today as federal judge of the west Tennessee district, said he would continue to serve as president of the Southern league, at least until the end of the season.

Martin said he felt it could be unfair to the league and its directors to suddenly resign during the playing season and disrupt an organization he has headed for 17 years.

Judge Martin explained he owned no financial interest in any baseball club and there would be "no conflict whatever between my duties as federal judge and my position as president of the Southern league."

The 31-year-old attorney, resident in United States Bank Commission, Kennesaw M. Landis, who for many years served as federal judge while acting as national baseball head.

In explaining his position, Martin said: "Should I find the burden of continuing as league president too severe, or in any other way unsatisfactory, I will resign at the next annual meeting following close of 1935 season."

"In assuming the judicial robe," he said, "I have, of course, retired from the practice of law and from all my numerous outside activities except baseball, which is my only recreation and hobby."

"Baseball is a clean, healthful and beneficial amusement to the masses of Americans and, therefore, I have been proud of my connection with the game, and desire to see it continue to flourish as the national game."

In connection with being sworn in by Circuit Judge H. W. Laughlin, a close friend, he said he was dedicating his life to the service of our country" and that he would seek no other position unless called to higher service in the federal judiciary.

Emory Freshmen Defeat Decatur

Emory's freshman tennis team defeated Decatur, 5 to 4, Wednesday afternoon at the Emory courts. It was the first victory of the season for the freshmen, and the first match loss for Decatur.

Only two contests went three sets. Paul Anderson and Tom Maher won the deciding match for Emory, defeating Dick Grace and Ben Lee, 6-3, 7-5, after Fenwick Jones and Paul Wagner, Emory, had defaulted to Paul Gleason and Earl Epperson. Decatur, in a hard-fought semi-final, match 6-3, 4-6, 6-1.

Paul Anderson, Emory, defeated Dick Grace, Decatur, 6-2, 6-4; Fenwick Jones, Emory, defeated Paul Gleason, Decatur, 6-2, 6-4; Tom Maher, Emory, defeated C. Bishop, Decatur, 6-1; Earl Epperson, Decatur, defeated Herbert Ogden, Emory, 6-4, 6-1.

"Curly" Griffin and Ray Bishop, Decatur, defeated Allan Crawford and Herbert Ogden, 6-2, 6-3, in the only other doubles match.

Mrs. Butler Wins Ringer Tourney

Mrs. Guy Butler and Mrs. L. M. Sheffield Jr., won first prize Wednesday at the conclusion of a three-day ringer tournament for members of the Atlanta Open Door Home for Children, according to the announcement.

Mrs. Butler won low gross with 85-86-87-258 in Class A, as Mrs. Sheffield won low gross in Class B with 204 strokes for the three days.

Mrs. H. B. Kirkpatrick with a 75 won the ringer prize in Class A, with Mrs. R. N. R. Bardwell winning the ringer in Class B with an 88.

International Loop Raises Player Limit

NEW YORK, May 8.—(P)—Club owners of the International league have voted to raise the circuit's player limit from 19 to 20 men, it was announced at headquarters today. The new limit, effective immediately, was the result of a mail ballot.

"He was a handy man, too, then?"
"No, not that; but he put the job in the hands of a first-class carpenter, who did it fairly well. Not as Dan or I ever had had time to do good work in a plain carpentered way. There was nothing really difficult about it. But Barry engineered it, and we wouldn't change a stick or a stone in it now."

"Of course not. Shall you remain in the house through the winter, or do you go to the city?"

"That we haven't decided. I want to take Dan off on a cruise to some place that would really distract him. He has no real interest him. How are you getting along with your work here?"

"A little quiver in Pat's speech robbed the words of their seeming carelessness, and Stone replied, gently,

"As well as I can hope. Not only the double murder, but other complications have been added to my difficult case. I am pretty sure, though, that soon I can make a definite report."

"I don't want to hasten your work, Mr. Stone, nor does Dan. But it is hard to feel that one may be harboring a murderer under one's roof. If I could be convinced that no one was staying here at Lang Syne—"

"You suspect someone, then? That is natural; it would be strange if you did not."

"I do and I don't. At times I hate myself for imagining the one I do imagine might have been the cause of Barry's death."

"Suppose you forget it. I mean, forget it, but that you are wondering. Leave it to me for awhile, feeling that I can at least do as much in the matter as you can. If you know or learn anything important, tell me; that is only fair to my efforts. Now, Mr. Pat, I want to see Barry's typewriter. I have found his library, but it is not there."

"I've no idea where it is, but Ming will know. Going down now?"

"Yes; by the way, that's an odd notion your tropical friends have of shrines where they burn written paper. Why do they do that?"

"They fear one of their god's names might have been written on the paper, and he might be displeased. Pat left Stone, saying he would send the typewriter at once.

Kiah brought it immediately. Stone didn't know what to expect when he learned from it, but his thorough habits demanded that he look it over. It was an old one, out of repair and sadly in need of a cleaning, but he handled it as carefully as it had been a valuable old clock.

He had amassed some dozen or more messages and messages written by Barry, not one of any moment, but all mere trifles of dates of engagements or instructions to Ming and Kiah or memoranda to aid his own memory.

One in particular arrested Stone's attention. It ran:

"Dear Uncle Pat do let me have a thousand dollars tomorrow. Dad is on his ear about that Turner girl and won't give it to me Be a good sport now do B."

All Barry's notes were lacking in punctuation. He seemed to scorn periods and commas.

Stone examined the machine and found the punctuation keys were all right, so concluded it was a notion of time-saving with the young man. Another was to Jane:

"Sorry have to bear engagement for tomorrow Jane dear You won't mind too much will you I'll make it up to you know B"

These two interested Stone, more.

He carefully examined the typewriter and discovered that beyond all right the notes were written on that keyboard.

But as he pored over the papers, as he scanned closely the lettering, a sudden light came into his eyes.

Then he turned the notes over and looked at their backs.

Yes, he was right! These two notes were typed on the hands that had typed the others.

For these two showed no such even quality of pressure as betokened an experienced typist, or a slow carefull one.

There was no such writer in the house, and Stone's thoughts went again to Rodney Campion. But why should Campion write these notes to Jane and Uncle and to his finance?

It couldn't be possible that Rod was trying to get a thousands dollars under false pretenses! And why should Campion write the note to Jane?

One of the two odd notes were written by someone other than Barry Wayne.

On the other notes that Barry had assuredly written the capitals were not very heavy. Laying them face down and running his finger-tips over them, Stone did not feel any difference, but he could see it in his library.

"I've no idea where it is, but Ming will know. Going down now?"

"Perhaps not; but I am by no means sure you are right as to that."

"Take your time about it, sir. Leave no stone unturned. I will do all I can to help you. But make all the haste compatible with good work."

"Hello, are you the one that was on that yacht with the plain detective games about what was on the table?" Zeb asked.

"The same," Stone told him. "Can you take a run up to Nantucket?"

"To see you, sir?"

"To another life. When do you want I should arrive?"

"As soon as possible."

"Terminer mornin' then?"

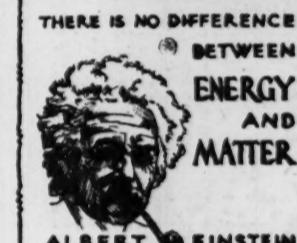

"Yes; that will be fine. But, I say, Zeb, don't come to Nantucket, either. Meet me at New London. At the coast guard station. Tell them you're there to meet me."

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Farley, Ph.D.

In 1905 Dr. Albert Einstein announced the theory that matter and energy were the same things. Since that time an enormous amount of research has been done on this question and such scientists as R. A. Millikan and Sir Francis W. Aston (Nobel prize-winners) have concluded that Einstein is right. Their conclusions are based on studies of the motion of atoms and of atoms. They believe that matter and energy are two forms of the same thing.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

THE CRUSADES.

IV—Richard and Saladin.

Seven "wars of the cross" to take the Holy Land for the Christians were carried on; but the first and third crusades were the most nearly successful. In some of the other crusades, from Europe did not even set foot in Palestine. A retreat was begun toward the coast, where the Saracens had captured Jaffa.

Richard made use of an army, a good many of whom reached the coast, but his main army traveled overland. After sharp fighting, Jaffa was won back.

Then Richard made peace with Saladin. A Saracen writer said that the peace was to last for three years and eight months, but a Christian writer recorded that it was to last "three years, three months, three days and three nights." It was agreed that the crusaders could go as pilgrims to Jerusalem, if they did not carry weapons; and most of the soldiers made the visit.

Richard declared that he would return with a new army and capture Jerusalem, but after a visit to England he carried on warfare in France, and died in battle at the town of Poitiers.

Saladin died within six months after Richard left the Holy Land. In a farewell message to his son, he said:

"Give love and honor to Allah, from whom all good comes. Spare human blood, for fear it shall fall on your own head. Blend which has been shed over sleep. Try to gain the hearts of your subjects. Be as careful of their well-being as of your own. We are all mortal, my son, and should hold no hatred against anyone."

COCA-COLA STOCK TAX FREE IN 1935

Undomestication of Corporation Affects Taxability First in 1936.

Georgia stockholders in the Coca-Cola Company, which is preparing to relinquish its Georgia demestication will not be submitted to the state intangibles tax until 1936, due to the fact the company was domesticated on January 1, the date on which ownership is based for taxing purposes.

Tax receivers of Atlanta and Fulton and DeKalb counties announced yesterday no attempt could be made this year to collect the intangibles tax on Coca-Cola stock but it would be subject next year.

The three taxing bodies have agreed to a low valuation on intangibles up to May 31, according to James C. Sheller who is aiding Fulton and DeKalb counties in getting the intangibles on the record books.

Under this agreement currency is assessed at five cents on the dollar, tax receivers said, and intangibles other than domestic or domesticated corporations at 15 per cent of their market value, first mortgages at 25 per cent, and second mortgages at 15 per cent. Values of mortgages are to be determined after conferences between the assessors and the holders of the mortgages.

The valuation actuation expires May 31 and applies only to the current taxing year, it was explained. H. H. Howard, tax commissioner of DeKalb county, announced last night he is collecting intangibles taxes for the years 1931 to 1934 inclusive based on 40 per cent of the valuation. The same is true in Fulton county, where Guy A. Moore is tax receiver. It is expected this same ratio will be employed on current taxes after the end of this month.

The reduction in valuation was adopted in order to persuade holders of intangible property to report their holdings and pay the taxes due.

Under the intangibles tax law the assessors can collect back taxes owing a taxpayer according to records to Mr. Sheller. Counties can hire their own investigators and it is a comparatively simple matter to ascertain the owners of intangible property. This is especially true of stocks, bonds and mortgages, he said.

METROPOLITAN OPERA WEEK PLANNED IN 1936

It was announced in Washington yesterday by Congressman Robert Rambo.

Mrs. Peterson is a member of the Atlanta board of education and widely known in educational circles. Her nomination was rejected because she is not a postoffice or civil service employee, it was reported.

SERIES OF ACCIDENTS
FOLLOW FIRST CRASH

A woman was seriously injured, several others were hurt and four charged of reckless driving, including one filed by a policeman against himself, resulted from a series of three automobile accidents yesterday, all of which were related. Victims of the accident included both of the others and an ambulance was involved in one of the crashes.

The original accident occurred on Dill Avenue yesterday morning when a car driven, according to police, by F. O. Boyd, of 1030 Pulliam street, crashed into telephone pole. A woman companion of Boyd, who gave her name as Margaret DeVauqua, of the Hotel Hotel, was knocked unconscious by the blow. The couple were picked up by a Grady hospital ambulance driven by Tom Hardin. At Butler and Decatur streets the ambulance was in collision with a car driven according to police, by P. R. Arbust, of 4 Sewell road.

The attending physician in the ambulance, Dr. Harry Land, was cut by glass and raised a bone chip from the original accident victim, who was shaken up. The damaged ambulance then proceeded to the hospital, where it was found that Margaret DeVauqua was suffering with an injury of the skull.

In the meantime, Patrolman Wall and Massey who had investigated the original accident, found a man on the sidewalk near the scene. They put him in their car and started for Grady hospital, but at Piedmont avenue and Hunter street the police car was in collision with an automobile driven, according to police report, by W. S. Montgomery, of 788 Marion avenue.

Wall arrested himself on a charge of reckless driving and filed a similar charge against Montgomery. During the excitement the police car police were rushing to the hospital disappeared. In police court both of the latter charges were dismissed.

Boyd was charged with reckless driving, and trial was set for May 9. Arbust likewise was charged with reckless driving.

(—Yesterday's 20 utilities and 60 bonds reported by Standard Statistics.)

By G. A. PHILLIPS.

NEW YORK, May 8.—(P)—A strong rally in United States government obligations overshadowed other operations on the bond market today.

Generally higher prices also prevailed among corporate issues at the close, despite an uneven start.

Following three or four days of drooping tendencies, all types of government loans snapped back in impressive fashion yesterday from Wall Street, particularly in fairly specific terms that President Roosevelt would veto the soldiers' bonus bill passed yesterday by the senate. No less than 14 treasury issues averaged 8-32nds higher, with the newly distributed 2-7-8 per cent issue the most heavily in evidence.

In addition to the usual banks and institutional buying, investment circles noted an increasing tendency among out-of-town banks to withdraw funds from deposit in New York because of the low interest return and purchase of government bonds.

Transfers in corporate bonds were larger than usual and after an unsatisfactory performance during most of the morning, prices steadied. Postal Telegraph 5s came back strongly, closing at 29, up 2 3-4 points. International Telephone 5s were 1 1-4 better at 58 3-4.

Other well-known bonds ending high included Baltimore & Ohio 6s at 111, Southern Railway 5s at 88, Lliggett & Myers 6s at 120, 7.8, Penn Dixie 6s at 88, Federal Light & Traction 5s at 91 1-2 and Montana Power 5s at 105. The Associated Press averages were 2 of a point higher to one point lower.

Moderately active trading was general in the foreign department. Prominent long holding higher included most of the South and Central American governments as well as representative loans of various European governments.

Transfers aggregated $14,000,000, value compared with $13,420,000 on Tuesday and of this total United States governments accounted for $5,750,000, compared with $4,270,000 the previous day.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK. May 8.—Raw sugar was firm today. Prices remained steady at 82¢ per pound for shipment sugars. There was a better inquiry, particularly for the later dates, from buyers of 40,000 bags of refined and 25,000 bags of Puerto Rico for June and July shipment at 34.00. Futures were firm in all positions, although no high ground for the movement on further trade covering and commission house buying.

The market was firm and mostly in the way of realizing on the scale up. The market closed at or within a point of the previous day and from time to time in the No. 3 contract and 2 to 2 points higher in the No. 1.

Sales were 36,000 tons in the No. 3 contract and 110,000 in the No. 1.
